

I am one of the many supporters of K-Love radio. It gives us a local station to listen to that is family friendly and no commercials. All the people that listen to this station and its Christian message would have to listen to a secular station with questionable moral standards. This service is in the public interest because the content can be listened to by all family members and not just the kids or the adults listening separately.

The content on K-Love changes lives for the better. How many radio stations can say that? People who listen to K-Love build better communities. I believe these are ideals we want for our neighborhoods, towns, and our nation. I think it is wrong to give our frequencies away to stations that we have no say in their content.
